Vaccine Oregon Today Supports Community Vaccine Access Across the State

Vaccine Oregon Today is working to help communities across Oregon better understand and access recommended vaccines. Through education, outreach and coordination with local partners, the initiative aims to make vaccine information easier to find and easier to trust.

Efforts include sharing practical resources, supporting community conversations, and helping connect residents with clinics, public health partners and local providers. The goal is to reduce confusion, answer common questions and encourage people to talk with trusted health professionals about vaccines for themselves and their families.
